Italy lies in Southern Europe.
It is easy to recognize on any world map, as the country is shaped like a high-heeled boot, as you can see on the map above.

It looks like the boot is kicking a ball, which is the island of Sicily, don't you think so? Not for nothing soccer is our national sport!!!

Italian Food is conviviality and joy. And slowness of course. Enjoying a meal with friends or family is the main ingredient of any Italian dish.

ITALIAN BREAKFAST

The traditional Italian breakfast consists of a cup of milk and coffee, some biscuits or a piece of cake.

Children drink hot chocolate, or hot milk with very little barley coffee. Other products such as cereals, fruit salad, fruit juice and yogurt are becoming increasingly common as part of the meal.

If breakfast is eaten in a bar it is composed of cappuccino or espresso and a croissant or other pastries.

ITALIAN LUNCH

Lunch is usually the most important meal of the day. A typical Italian lunch consists of a first course “il primo” (pasta, rice, soup or potage), a second course “il secondo” (meat or fish) served together with a side dish “il contorno” (vegetables or salad) and fruit. Italians finish their lunch with an espresso and on special occasions with a dessert.

Atri is a very beautiful ancient town in the heart of the Abruzzo Region. Situated 450 meters above sea level, with a population of 11,500 inhabitants, this lively heritage site is home to fascinating historic places, colourful events, suggestive landscapes and corners.

Atri, Hatria in origin, is one of the oldest towns in Abruzzo. Its ancient origins go back to the VII-V century BC.
The funeral site found nearby, dates back to the VII century BC and testifies the presence of the Picenes, an Italic tribe, in this area. Later it became an Important Roman colony. During the Middle Ages it was subject to Barbarian Invasions and foreign powers to rise back under the dominion of the Lords of Acquaviva in the XV century. This powerful local family began to coin their own money here and ruled since the eighteenth century. After the death of the last duchess the territory was annexed by the Kingdom of Naples. This resulted in another period of stability which ended with the establishment of the United Italian State in 1861.

The Canale Fountain

The Cloister

Atri is also known for its "Calanchi" or ravines. Wind and water have caused an erosion.

The landscape has often been compared to the circles of Dante's Inferno and evokes a suggestive lunar atmosphere.

In 1995 the ravines have constituted a Nature Reserve, run by the Abruzzo regional section of WWF Italia.
